STRANGER DIES IN LOCAL HOSPITAL

Man, Apparently 55 Years Old, Struck By Machine Driven By Clyde Glenn Frye, Last Night—Dies In Hospital Today

THE FRYES GIVE SELVES UP

But Released On Own Recognizance—Nothing On Man to Identify Him, And His Presence In This Section of Country Is Involved In Mystery

An unidentified man ,apparently 55 years old, large of stature, presumably weighing 225 pounds, was struck by a Columbia roadster near the Maple Creek bridge and inside the borough limits, last night at 6:50 o'clock dying from his injuries in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital this morning at 8:50 o'clock. There was naught on his person to identify the man, who was well dressed, except a key ring check of the Commonwealth Casualty Insurance Company, Newark, New Jersey his pocketbook containing no money and a few other articles of no material value. Chief of Police James A. Murphy this forenoon wired a description of the decedent to the insurance company in question, giving information of the man, in an effort to learn his name and what he was doing in this section of the country. The automobile, bearing license No.829-237, was being driven by Clyde Glenn Frye, and with him was his brother, Wilbur Frye, both of whom reside in Twilight. After the accident, the Frye brothers, who were northward bound, came to Charleroi and gave themselves over to the police and were released on their own recognizance.

According to Clyde Glenn Frye, who was driving the machine, the man stepped off thecurbing directly in front of the car, the action being taken so suddenly that he had not time to apply the brakes and stop the machine. The borough ambulance repaired to the place of accident and took the unconscious man to the hospital, where it was found that his skull had been fractured, his face lacerated and that he had received bodily injuries. It was seen that his passing was only a matter of time.

Despite the seriousness of his hurts, the injured man, who was of a robust build, showed wonderful vitality, but he did not regain consciousness. Who he was or what he was doing in this section, is involved in more or less of mystery.

NO FUNDS TO FIX THE ROAD

According to communications from the state highway department, the improvement of the Monongahela-North Charleroi road, better known as the Country club highway, has been vetoed by Secretary Paul D. Wright.

Efforts on the part of residents of Washington and Westmoreland counties to bring about the construction of an improved road, connecting Lock No. 4 with Monongahela and Donora, failed last week.

The veto was made on the grounds that there are no available funds for secondary road construction in Washington county at this time.

The highway extends from the Monongahela City line, at the Robert Hagerty farm to the borough limits of North Charleroi, a distance of approximately four miles.

THE END CAME AT 8:55 TODAY

An unusually interesting photo of President and Mrs. Harding and members of their immediate party, taken on the deck of the U. S. S. Henderson. Brig. Gen. Sawyer is shown standing near, with Mrs. Harding sitting close by, and Secretary Hoover and Dr. Hubert Work directly behind the late President.

Mrs. Harding Was Ill Two Weeks Before Seriousness of Condition Became Known

Marion, Ohio, November 21.—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the late President Harding, died today.

Weakened by the shock of her husband's death and the ordeal of his public funeral a year and a half ago, Mrs. Harding was unable to throw off the recurrence of the malady which had brought her to the very gates of death in 1922 at the White House.

She became seriously ill late in October. Save for intervals of improvement, her strength ebbed gradually until the end.

Mrs. Harding died at 8:55 a. m. at White Oaks Farm.

With her when the end came were her brother, Clifford Kling of Florida, Mrs. Charles E. Sawyer, widow of President Harding's personal physician, and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer.

Mrs. Harding passed into a coma yesterday morning and early today she was unconscious.

She was ill two weeks before the gravity of her condition became known outside of White Oaks, the sanitarium and country estate of the Sawyers. Then, on the morning of November 3, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, after a consultation with Dr. J. C. Wood, specialist, issued a bulletin describing her condition as "alarming."

Immediately messages of sympathy and hope for rapid recovery began pouring in from all parts of the country.

The nation which so admired the fortitude with which Mrs. Harding bore up under the many dramatic chapters in her career as first lady of the land, was quick to send word of good cheer to her bedside.

Probably no other woman in the history of America's national life ever held so securely the admiration of the country as did Mrs. Harding.

WORKMEN STUMBLE ON TO FORTUNE OF $517,800

Youngstown, Ohio, November 21.—A soggy automobile robe crammed into a crevice under the Lincoln Park bridge here revealed a hoard of $517,800 in Liberty Bonds and other negotiable securities when three workmen of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company stumbled upon the discovery while enroute to work Wednesday, it was revealed today.

Postmaster W. E. Westwood has taken charge of the fortune. Investigation revealed that some of the bonds may have been taken from the Robert County bank, which was robbed November 3.

Police believe the bonds were stolen by a band of auto bandits in a series of robberies, and an attempt to dispose of them would lead to their arrest, caused them to hide them in a niche in the bridge, police believe.

JURY FINDS GIRL GUILTY OF THEFT

Bertha Ponta of Donora Is Convicted For Failure to Return Ring to John Clement — Sentence is Deferred

GIRL IS BUT SEVENTEEN

Woman Is Accused of Keeping Ring, Valued at $250, Which Had Been Loaned Her By Clement—Defense Is That Rings Had Been Exchanged

Bertha Ponta a 17-year-old Donora girl, was convicted of larceny by bailee by a jury in Judge Brownson's court yesterday afternoon. Sentence on the verdict was deferred until Monday.

The girl was accused of keeping a diamond ring, valued at $250, which had been lent to her by John Clements, of Donora, on January 21, last. The defense was that they had exchanged rings at a wedding and that she had kept Clement's ring until hers had been returned.

This was the last case for trial at this term of court and all jurors were excused with the thanks of the court, from further service.

Caroline White, of Pittsburgh, was tried before Judge Erwin Cummins yesterday on a charge of the larceny of $115 from the pocketbook of Mrs. Nannie Davis. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after being out a short time.

On September 6, 1924, the defendant was visiting her aunt, Mary White, at California. It seems that Mrs. Davis and her daughter Matel Bohn, lived in the same house, and took care of Mary White, who is an aged woman. Mrs. Davis claims that she had $345 in her pocketbook, and that $115 was taken out. Both claimed that they saw the defendant with the pocketbook in her hands, but they did not miss the money until afterwards. The defendant bears an excellent reputation and had several good character witnesses from Pitts-

Fireman Is Seriously Burned In Blaze at Monongahela City

Fireman Dewey Brindle, 25 years old, of Railroad street, Monongahela, was seriously injured and two buildings were burned in Second street, that city, last night, entailing a loss of $13,000 or more.

Fireman Brindle was on Truck No. 2, which was returning to the department for additional equipment and fell from the machine. He was thrown under the truck, one of the wheels passing over his right leg, fracturing it in two places. Brindle was also badly cut and bruised and was rushed to the Memorial hospital.

One of the dwellings burned was a double house, located at 406 and 408 Second street, and owned by William Herrington. This property had a value of about $9,000. The other residence destroyed was on an adjoining lot, 410 Second street, and was owned by the William Spencer estate and occupied by E. E. McClery, superintendent of the Soudan mine, at VanVoorhis. It was valued at $4,000.

The flames are believed to have started from one of two stoves in the Herrington property, which was not occupied but was being repaired. Carpenters had the stoves to keep the building warm while they were working in it and had slacked the fires last evening when they quit work.

Having gained great headway before discovered, the firemen were powerless to do anything to save the Herrington property or that adjoining.

Starting in the interior, the flames in the Herrington building were not noticed until the entire structure was ablaze. Breaking out suddenly, they swept across to the dwelling occupied by the McClery family and it was, also, soon in flames.

One of the worst fires that Monongahela has suffered in a number of months, the blaze attracted much attention, the streets in the vicinity swarming with the curious.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—Attorney W. F. Stadtlander, a member of the Allegheny county delegation to the state legislature, is sponsor of a move to stimulate naturalization.

Stadtlander also believes that his bill if made law would decrease the number of accidents, as a large number of aliens are involved in motor accidents, he claims.

CALIFORNIA NORMAL AND W. & J. FRESHMEN AT PARK HERE TOMORROW

One of the most interesting football games of the season to be played in Charleroi will be the game tomorrow afternoon between the California Normal team and the W. & J. Freshmen. Both teams have been coached to the limit and both are claiming a victory.

The California team being made up of so many Charleroi boys there will no doubt be a large crowd at the game as nearly as much interest is being displayed by the fans here as in California about the Normal boys. The game will start at 2:30.

Stellmack Is Defeated Easily By Conlon; Draws Mar Program

Frankie Stellmark of Cleveland proved easy picking for Dick Conlon ast night at McKeesport, where the pair met in the feature bout of 10 ounds at the Pallisades Conlon won n a walk from the Clevelander and ith the exception of the first and econd rounds, there was nothing to but the blond haired lad from Alona. Conlon never put up a better ght in his career than he staged gainst his opponent, who seemed illing enough but a bit off color. the late rounds the Cleveland boy eemed willing enough to tie up onlon to save himself from punishent.

The first two rounds of the bout ere full of red hot action which romised to develop into a real battle, ut as the bout progressed, Stellack tired, lost his forceful tactics nd the bout lost color. Conlon threw nough punches into Frankie's anovered face and body to win a dozen ghts in the last seven rounds.

But what the main gout lacked the ther bouts rectified for it, though a ew poor decisions by Draw Kennedy, eferee, when the judges failed to gree put a damper on the proceedigs. In the main bout the fans got rise out of Kennedy when he prawled to his back on the canvas in voiding the tugging pair of boxers. The semi-final brought forth a surrise package in Mike Fedorsick, esty Donora battler, who gave oung Penno of McKees Rocks, a ore experienced ringman, a real batle and took four of the six rounds ly to hear the judges disagree and e referee call the bout a draw. iven only an outside chance to win fore the bout started Fedorsick, ho subbed for Moore, came through th a fine fight and with the exepm of the fourth and sixth rounds d the better of the bout. Penno, iving to knock down his more uthful opponent, but missing his rk by miles upon many occasions ked bad for a fellow with as much perience.

Fedorisk put up a cool battle and fact that he carried a chip on his ulder throughout the bout kept McKees Rocks boy striving for a isive win. It was a good slamg affair from start to finish.

Another good bout marred by a w decision by the referee was put by Cyclone Villa of Jamestown, N. and Joe Elrame of Conneaut Lake, h the latter getting the benefit of decision. Villa an old battler, ved off the youthful Elrame's ty punches and should have been en the verdict for he clearly outnted the Conneaut lad for a great number of the six rounds. This s a red hot affair with both lads ring to be willing mixers.

A "hot" retort often chills warm endships.

HARMON TO GET IN TODAY FOR SHEVLIN BOUT

With the arrival in Pittsburgh yesterday of Willie Harmon, who will engage in public workouts for his ten round bout with Eddie Shevlin, of Boston, Monday night at Motor Square Garden, interest in the bout has increased. Harmon will follow the innovation of Harry Greb and Jimmy Delaney in Pittsburgh last week and every afternoon until Monday will give the fans a chance to see him in action in the ring. Harmon comes here fresh from a victory over Paul Doyle scored in New York Wednesday night and is ambitious of continuing his streak which has already made him the talk of the East among the welters.

Shevlin's class is well known in Pittsburgh. In his bouts with Jimmy Jones and others, Shevlin has lived up to his title of the Dartmouth boxing master and is confident that his style will offset the slugging rushing attack of the Eastside Ghetto boy.

To support the main bout Manager John Bell has gotten together a preliminary card which should be productive of action. In the semi-final Young Zabisch, who fought a great battle in Pittsburgh with Billy Angelo in his last appearance, will take on Jimmy O'Hara of Johnstown, who gave Zabisch a terrific fight in the Flood City last summer. They will go eight rounds. In the second bout Frankie Carpentier, the flashy New Kensington kid, will meet Jack McFarland of Wilkinsburg, whose showing last week made him many friends. Two newcomers, Eddie Nelson of Lawrenceville, and Johnny Wolcott, will open the show.

DAVIES TO MEET HUGHES IN MAIN BOUT OF THE BILL

Willie Davies of Roscoe will meet Tommy Hughes of Philadelphia at Clarksburg, West Virginia, tonight in the main bout of a good bill, the mill to be one of 10 rounds. Mr. Davies was accompanied to Clarksburg today by Jim Buchanan, his manager, and Cuddy DeMarco, who will act in the capacity of his advisors. The bout will be pulled off in the Carmichael auditorium.

In the semi-final, Kid Miller of Monongahela will meet Young Ruddy of this place, the mill to be one of eight rounds.

If you are always the first to quit you will be the last to be promoted.

RUMORS OF A FRAMEUP IN COAST FIGHT

Rumors of a frame-up, reports of bribery, stories of confessions, charges of crooked work, enough to keep Sherlock Holmes busy investigating for years to come, are flying about in Los Angeles in and out of boxing circles following the affair at Culver City Monday night, when Fred Fulton, Minnesota plasterer-fighter, fell on the canvas at the feet of Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight, 35 seconds after the starting gong rang.

At the center of the maze stands Fulton, Fuente, Fred Winsor, manager for Fuente, and Jack Reddy, manager of Fulton, under $1,000 bail each, waiting to appear on charges of having violated California's boxing [illegible] thing more valuable than a $35 medal.

This law is the one that will die early next year to be succeeded by the 10 and 12-round statute approved at the last election.

LOOK AFTER YOUR ACCOUNT IN "NATURE'S BANK"

The health talk of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is prepared this week by Dr. William C. Miller, Director, Bureau of Public Health Education. Dr. Miller says:

"We may not all own stocks and bonds, but we do, each and every one of us, have an account in "natures bank."

For our own deposits, which consist of regularity of habits, moderation in eating and drinking, exercise, rest and temperance in all things, we receive good interest in the form of growth, strength and resisting power against disease.

Our drafts, if not too heavy, are honored but we should be careful that these drafts are not large enough to dip into the original deposit that was credited to us the day we first saw the light and consisted of so much of that inexplainable something which, for want of a better word, is called "vitality." When that is drawn upon, it often requires a long, hard period of saving to restore it. It is a good thing to know how your account stands. Have you seen the sign 70 plus? It is the slogan of the State Department of Health in its campaign for periodicau health examinations. It means that you may live much beyond seventy if you keep a balance in "nature's bank." See your family doctor and find out how your account stands and put the sign 70 plus on your envelopes to remind others."

Many New Names On Pirate Roster For Next Season

Forty players appear on the reserve list which has been filed by the Pittsburgh baseball club at National League headquarters in compliance with the rule which provides that all names of athletes must be in the hands of President John A. Heydler not later than the first day of November each year.

The various major league teams are limited to 25 players between June 15 and August 31, but after the latter date as many as 40 may be carried until the middle of the following June, when the minimum figure again becomes the high mark. The Pirates have taken advantage of the maximum limit, which does not include the pilot, as he is not a playing manager.

Of the 17 pitchers on the Buccaneer roster, several youngsters have not yet been tried out in a Pittsburgh uniform. Among them are Joe Brown, C. Euliss, Fred Scott and C. B. Shelton. Brown was obtained from the Oklahoma City club. Shelton hails from the sandlots of North Carolina. Scott was a star at Texas Christian University, and Euliss is a semi-pro prospect. All four are right handers.

Catchers: John B. Gooch, Clifford H. Knox, Walter J. Schmidt, Earl Smith and Roy H. Spencer.

Infielders: Everett D. Barnes, John J. Chapman, Joseph Cronin, Jewel Ens, Edward Moore, Albert Niehaus, John Rawlings, J. C. Sherlock, Harold J. Traynor and Glenn Wright.

Outfielders: Clyde L. Barnhart, Carson L. Bigbee, Maxwell G. Carey, Hazen S. Cuyler, R. Maurice Frew, George F. Grantham, George Haas, and Walter Mueller.

Those marked "voluntarily retired" are Outfielder Homar S. Lohr, Catcher James Mattox and Pitcher Drew Rader. Three Pirates who are declared "ineligible," but who are still on the reserve list are Catcher William Haeffner, Pitcher John Meador and Catcher Ben Shaw.

CHRISTMAS BUYING.

Just on the eve of buying for Christmas it may be well to say that Charleroi merchants will be better prepared than ever to take care of the trade. They are receiving new goods every day, and will soon be "full up to the top." Some of them, maybe, have received all their surplus holiday stock, but we believe that all the goods which they will handle, especially goods to cater to the Christmas trade, have not all arrived.

Each year, through the columns of the Mail, principally, local business men tell the public a portion of the bargains which they have to offer them, which will preclude their buying out of town.

It is well-known that the mail order houses have been filling local homes with their holiday offerings, but the wise local person has learned that it is wisdom to buy at home, where you can get what you want, when you want it, and a guarantee that it is right, your money back, or the article exchanged.

In its discussion of the Loeb and Leopold murder case—reprinted in the Living Age—the London Saturday Review lists the old kinds of murder and the new kind as follows: "Commercial murder, which looks not beyond the immediate and material gain; murder for the preservation of respectability, which is peculiarly shy of publicity; murder out of mere anger, which is no more than a gesture happening to be made with a weapon; and murder for sport."

A man weighing 184 pounds has applied for transportation as air mail from San Francisco to New York. At regular rates the postage on him would be $718.08, but he might cut the amount down somewhat by taking time to "reduce" a bit before getting into a mail bag.

It has been shown that golf can be played under a 400,000,000 candlepower searchlight, but it must be rather expensive, and as golf is the sport of the semi-leisured classes, the more desirable sunlight in most cases is doubtless found to be plentiful enough.

The great increase in the consuftion of coffee since pre-Volstead days troubles only a few physicians and the anti-coffee reformers. What troubles the majority of the people is the great and continuing increase in the p rice of the commodity.

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarks insists that at least six of her sex should be sent to brighten up the Senate which she describes as "that old man's home." Henry Watterson some years ago less mildly referred to it as a haunt of "grey wolves."

Thomas C. Harbaugh, who died in an Ohio poor house the other day, is credited with having been the author of the "Nick Carter" stories, but seven other persons had previously been credited with the same debatable distinction.

It is figured that after all only about half of the possible voters took part in the election. That would mean that only the other half to any extent fell for all that advanced art of publicity and developed science of propaganda.

Among the election surprises is the majority of 606 for Senator Brookhart of Iowa—he who felt so sure of himself and his insurgent-Republican cause that he demanded the recall of the Coolidge nomination.

It Started Something

Your medicine is the talk of the town since pulling me from the grave. I have told dozens about it and I know of at least ten who are now taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, all with good results. I never saw anything like it. One man who had been operated on for gall stones and had them come back, took it and says he swears he is cured." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

Kentucky's Pride

The famous "Blue Grass" region of Kentucky has this distinction. Tobacco and hemp have two crops a year and grow quite high, and the blue grass grows almost throughout the year. This region occupies the north central portion of the state, about 10,000 square miles, Lexington being the metropolis. The underlying rock is blue limestone, rich in phosphate of lime.

No Danger From Comets

The Naval observatory says that the mass of a comet is never large; and the material is, for the most part, exceedingly tenuous. It is probable that the earth, if struck by a comet, would witness nothing more than a meteoric shower. The explosions, if any, would be similar to those hitherto observed in the case of large meteorites.

Manners

Manners have been somewhat cynically defined to be a contrivance of wise men to keep fools at a distance. Fashion is shrewd to detect those who do not belong to her train and seldom wastes her attentions. Society is very swift in its instincts and, if you do not belong to it, resists and sneers at you, or quietly drops you.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Author of Famous Poem

The correct name of the poem "The Night Before Christmas" is "A Visit From St. Nicholas." This was written by Clement C. Moore, an American poet and educator, at New York city in 1822. He wrote it for his children, but afterward it was published in a New York paper and later in a book of his collected poems.

Today and Yesterday

FEW youngsters to-day ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. But they know the how and why of typewriters, phonographs, radios, telephones, automobiles; what happens when a push of the button gives light, or a kodak's flash fixes their image on paper.

Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavedom. They bring late improvements within your reach.

Field's Tribute to Riley

Among the finest tributes which one man of genius has paid to another is that of Eugene Field to his friend and brother poet, James Whitcomb Riley. He put it in the language of an Indiana villager and the essence of it was this paragraph:

"Riley has got true genius; can't call it anything else. When he was born God give him the tongues of men and of angels, and threw in charity for good measure. There hain't no Shakespeare business about him, nor no Byron. Jim is a straightaway poet, and his pieces are as full of honey and dew as the flower the hummin' bird plays tag with in the cool sunlight of an early summer morning. You don't have to have anybody tell you what Jim means in them pieces; there hain't no need of footnotes and there hain't no disputed passages. It is all plain music from the word go, and that's the kind of music a feller's heart loves to dance to."

Happiness and Hard Work

Happiness, I have discovered, is nearly always a rebound from hard work. It is one of the follies of men to imagine that they can enjoy more thought, or emotion, or sentiment. As well try to eat beauty! For happiness must be tricked! She loves to see men at work. She loves sweat, wearing not in palaces, but lurking in cornfields and factories and hovering over littered desks. She crowns the unconscious head of the busy child. If you look up suddenly from hard work you will see her, but if you look too long she fades sorrowfully away.—From "Adventures in Contentment," by David Grayson.

Not Unlucky for All

The number thirteen hardly deserves its black reputation, which it has had ever since there were thirteen at the Last Supper at which Our Lord was betrayed. Hence the firm conviction that if this number sit down to table one of them will shortly afterwards die.

The fact of the matter is, as astrologists tell us, that thirteen is only unlucky to certain people. On others it has no more potent effect than any other number, while a few people declare that it always brings them good fortune.

Birthplace of Liberty

The so called "Tennis Court Oath," derived its name from the tennis courts at Versailles, where members of the national assembly of France in 1789 met and took the solemn oath that they would continue to meet for the dispatch of business wherever circumstances might require until the constitution of the kingdom had been established upon sound and solid foundation. They met on the tennis courts because admission to the hall of the "Menus Plaisirs" had been denied them by Louis XVI.

INDIANS SUE TEXAS FOR BIG LAND TRACT

File Title Claim to Acreage Value of $150,000,000.

Tyler, Texas—As another legal step in prosecution of their claim to title to 1,500,000 acres of land in eastern Texas, the Cherokee Indians, through their attorney, John M. Taylor of Claremore, Okla., have filed for record in the county clerk's office here a complete abstract and description of the property involved. The value of the land at this time is placed at about $150,000,000. It is made up of many fine farms, thriving communities and towns.

The Cherokees claim to have obtained the territory outlined by treaty dated November 8, 1822, with the Mexican government, and assert the treaty rights acquired from the Mexicans were recognized by the republic of Texas, Sam Houston, and other representatives of the republic, acting for Texas.

Asserting the white settlers, for no reason other than that they wanted the Indians' land, forcefully dispossessed the Cherokees in 1839, using Texas rangers for the purpose and engaging in warfare against them, the remaining tribe of the Cherokees de[illegible] country described.

The claims involved in the instrument just filed have been pending for years before both federal and state governments. The motive for filing the abstract and history of the claim for record in the county clerk's office here is not known.

Students of early Texas history declare the republic of Texas never legally ratified any agreement made by Sam Houston and others with the Cherokees and that, even had the treaty been ratified, it expired upon the outbreak of a state of war between the Cherokee tribe and the republic of Texas, which culminated in the bloody battle of Larissa, Cherokee county, in 1839, when the power of the Cherokees was broken after a determined fight.

Once Famous Violinist Playing in Streets

Pittsburgh.—Back in 1908 Peter van der Meer played a violin recital in Carnegie Music hall, New York, and critics acclaimed the artistry in his performance of Paganini's Concerto in D Major. He had studied under Ysaye at Antwerp and Brussels, and had been a member of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

Recently a group of men idling about the entrance to the Fort Pitt hotel saw a blind street musician preparing to play. To them he was just a gypsying fiddler.

But apathy vanished and a crowd gathered as the strains of Schumann's "Traumerei" came sweetly from the instrument in the hands of the sightless player. "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser," "Souvenir" by Drdla, a Drego Serenade, the prison scene from "Il Trovatore," and the intermezzo from "Cavaleria Rusticana" followed for a two-hour program.

Bill folds were opened and the battered hat held more than $50 when the collection was over.

The blind player was Peter van der Meer, sightless since 1915 when cataracts followed measles in a prolonged illness. For six years he was in Bellevue hospital, New York where physicians told him he would never see again.

He has played his way to Pittsburgh. He will continue in a few days his journey southward with his violin, and what Ysaye and his own passion for the instrument have given him will pay the way.

Armenia Has 40,000 Acres in Cotton Plant

Erivan, Armenia.—American methods of cotton growing are being introduced in Armenia.

A new cotton factory, equipped with modern American machinery, has just been completed in Erivan.

At the present time, more than 40,000 acres of cotton are under cultivation. This is 40 times greater than the acreage under cultivation in 1921.

The Armenian government expects this year to produce 30,000,000 pounds of raw cotton. One factory in Erivan has an output of nearly 2,000,000 pounds a month.

In order to encourage farmers to cultivate their own cotton fields, the government is alloting them large quantities of free seed. The government pays $2.75 for 40 pounds of the raw material. The present average yield is about 1,000 pounds an acre.

Methuselah Only 80 Astronomer Declares

Berkeley, Cal.—Methuselah was not nine hundred and sixty-nine years of age when he died, as set forth in Genesis, but was only eighty, according to a statement by Prof. Russell T. Crawford, astronomer at the University of California.

"The ancients computed their time by cycles, which we have taken to mean years," Professor Crawford said. "This is wrong, for the ancients did not mean a yearly cycle but a cycle of the moon, of which there may have been 969 in Methuselah's life. There are that number of moon cycles in 80 years.

Captive Orang-Utan Showed Intelligence

An orang-utan named Dohong, which was brought to the New York zoo from Borneo some years ago, astonished us by his intelligence, W. Reid Blair writes in the American Magazine. A gas pipe four feet long and two inches in diameter was wired to the bars at the front of his cage. The pipe itself could not be tilted or moved. Inside this pipe—in the very middle—a piece of banana was placed. Dohong, who was very fond of bananas, tried to get it. First he attempted to reach it with his hands, then his feet, and failed. He tried to loosen the pipe, but he couldn't do that. He was very much disturbed over his inability to get at that banana, and sat down to think it over. But no happy solution came to him—for the simple reason that, under the circumstances, there wasn't any.

Finally, without Dohong's knowledge, a stick two feet long with a hook in the end of it was concealed in the straw of his cage. Then Dohong was put back in the cage and we waited. In the course of 15 minutes Dohong accidentally came across the hooked stick. It didn't mean anything to him on the instant, but presently he was struck by a bright idea. He inserted the hooked end of the stick into the pipe, and, lo! out came the banana on the hook! After that, when a banana was put inside the pipe, Dohong wasted no time trying to reach it with his hands, but began looking at once for the hooked stick.

This seemed to me to indicate a high order of intelligence.

Sealed! to protect Buick performance

Buick's chassis is sealed. Iron and steel housings protect the operation of all driving parts—seal them in to safeguard Buick performance.

Here are the vital points at which Buick engineering provides this extra protection:

1. FAN HUB—Fan bearing totally enclosed—lubricated by its own gear pump.
2. MOTOR—Steel cover keeps water from short-circuiting spark plugs. Steel cover over valve-in-head mechanism keeps dust out, oil in.
3. STARTER-GENERATOR—Delco single unit starter-generator completely housed in single housing. Starting gears housed with flywheel.
4. FLYWHEEL—Completely housed. Starting teeth protected from road damage and accumulation of mud and dirt.
5. CLUTCH—Multiple disc—completely housed.
6. TRANSMISSION—Completely protected. Shifting mechanism holes sealed.
7. UNIVERSAL JOINT—Completely encased in ball joint at front end of torque tube—lubricated automatically from transmission.
8. PROPELLER SHAFT—Buick's third member drive, which is a torque tube, completely encloses the propeller shaft. It is impossible for road dirt to work from the shaft into the universal joint or rear axle.
9. REAR AXLE—Floating type, entirely enclosed in rear axle housing.

UNCLE SAM MAKES MONEY ON SEALSKINS

Washington Nov. 5—The Department of Commerce has found that by simply using a different color dye in finishing sealskins from the Government owned Pribiloff slands their value can be doubled.

At the annual sale at St. Louis in October, when $470,000 worth of skins were sold, 1,845, which had been dyed a rich chestnut brown brought $51.72 per skin, contrasted with $25.95 for hose which were dyed the customary-black.

The new dye is an American invention and the finishing of the skins was an experiment which has proved successful, according to Secretary Secretary Hoover. The process is known only to government chemists and the finishing was done at their direction.

The brown sealskin coat made from the government hides has made its appearance and is in great demand It is likely that next year a larger proportion of the Pribiloff kill will be finished in the shade.

"Another feature of the recent sale," Secretary Hoover said, "was this was done to test out the assertion frequently made through the press and in Congress that the sale of raw undyed skins would bring larger net returns to the government than their sale in finished form. These raw skins realized an average of $7.90

"The costs of young and finishing skins is approximately $3.35 so that the net realization to the government from the sale of finished skins is $3.55 per skin higher than for those sold in raw state. This appears to me to answer forcibly the persistent agitation that skins should be sold in the salt.

"The number of skins that will be taken during the present season will approximately $19,000. The sealherd which is the property of the government shows a steady increase and now estimated to be about 697,000 as compared to 132,000 when the government took control of the Pribiloff Islands."

Keep Ice Pick Handy

Does that person exist who has not had to hunt the ice-pick? The last one who used it would either leave it with the ice, on top of the refrigerator or carry it out to some other place. The round eye part of an old fashioned fixture attached to a shelf to the wall near the ice box will save many steps. The pick can be dropped through the round hole and it will always be in its place.—From the Delineator.

FURNACE CASE IS AWAITING 3 DEVELOPMENTS

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Investigation of the Sheatsley furnace mystery marked time today awaiting three developments:

1—Report from the chemist examining a segment of the victim's oesophagus and a fragment of her lung to determine if possible whether Mrs. Sheatsley breathed after her head entered the furnace.

2—Report of Police Lieutenant Shellenberger and his aides on whether there were any outstanding contradictions in the testimony of Rev. Sheatsley and his four children.

3—Coroner Joseph Murphy's verdict.

Meanwhile the Lutheran pastor reported near a collapse from the strain subsequent to the finding of his wife's charred body in the parsonage furnace here last Monday night, his four children ranging in age from 10 to 20, and Franklin county prosecutor John R. King and Henry Carson, detective, are in Canton, near where Mrs. Sheatsley's remains were buried yesterday afternoon.

A statement issued with his office here today said that he and Carson probably would remain in Canton with the minister and his family until Sunday.

TELLS OF TORTURES NEW DRUG INSPIRES

Gruesome Night Ritual in Colombia Described.

New York.—No woman is allowed to [illegible] to witness the ceremony of caapi drinking, as practiced by the aborigines of southeastern Colombia, the penalty for violating this tribal law since time immemorial having been death, said Dr. Henry H. Rusby, dean of the Columbia University School of Pharmacy and honorary curator of the economic collections of the New York Botanical Garden, describing the manner of using the drug caapi and its effects.

Caapi is used by the aborigines of South America to cast out all fear and to impart "the valor of a warrior," said Dean Rusby of the drug which he discovered in the jungles during his recent explorations with the Mulford expedition A quantity of caapi brought home by Doctor Rusby is in the hands of laboratory investigators whose conclusions are being awaited with keen interest by scientists

The region in southeastern Colombia where caapi drinking prevails is called by a name which signifies in English "The Land of No Regrets," which suggests the "Land of the Lotus Eaters"

"The use of caapi is based upon the native belief that all tribal misfortunes or impending dangers are the work of a personal devil and that these dangers can be escaped and the injuries remedied only through the exorcising of this evil spirit," said Dean Rusby.

Users Submit to Torture.

The [illegible] said, they believe can only be effected through courageously facing danger and patiently enduring suffering. The action, too, must be entirely voluntary and it usually takes the form of an ordeal by torture. The caapi is drunk to impart the courage and fortitude necessary to sustain the chief actor in the drama.

The matter is first submitted to the all-powerful medicineman, who decides whether or not a council meeting shall be called. If his decision is favorable, the inhabitants of the surrounding villages are summoned by the great signal drum made by hollowing out an immense tree trunk, and the tones of which can be distinctly heard for several miles

The council meeting is preceded and accompanied by dances and other elaborate ceremonies in which both men and women participate.

"For this occasion" said Dean Rusby, "the men of the tribe gather and seat themselves in two rows, the individuals facing one another, but no woman is allowed to participate or even to view the ceremony. The penalty for violating this law has always been death, although I cannot say of my own certain knowledge whether this extreme severity still persists to this day."

"The caapi may be prepared by only one individual in the tribe and only certain specified officials are permitted to offer it to the drinkers. Under its influence the men develop a very warlike spirit, recounting their various exploits in battle or when subject to other dangers.

Ceremony in Forest at Night.

"As their 'courage' increases, one after another will volunteer to undergo the ordeal. When a sufficient number have thus volunteered, they will retire to some remote portion of the forest, where the torture is inflicted"

This ceremony usually takes place at dead of night. The dance which accompanied the ceremony was what is known as the Dance of the Owls and Frogs.

The men, stripped for the occasion, are supplied with huge gourd-like musical instruments and produce as they dance music which, if it is monotonous as to tune, is full of rhythm, being described by the explorers as very accurate as to time, pitch and quality of notes.

The dance having continued for some time, one of the participants will hand to a companion a cruel whip made of the tough splints from a palm leaf, which inflicts an intensely painful stroke. He then turns his back while his companion lashes him.

It is required, said Dean Rusby, that he continue to play his instrument without the loss of a note or any variation in time or tone, and without flinching or manifesting any other sign of suffering, however slight. Should he fail in this particular, it is a sign that so far as he is concerned the evil spirit triumphs and the efforts to exorcise it will be of no avail

If he successfully endures the scourging, he takes the whip from the hand of his companion, who in turn must receive blows similar to those which he has inflicted. The ceremony continues for a considerable time, until every man has been repeatedly scourged and his entire body covered with welts or bloody marks.

If all goes well, and the scourging has been properly endured, they return to the council and report a successful result.

"In Bolivia," said Doctor Rusby, "caapi is used chiefly as a mere exhilarating and stimulating beverage, somewhat like tea and coffee. Its use is very limited and the amount taken at a time is very small."

Could Fiction Writers Find Anything Funnier?

The story of the British civil servant who, after ten years' absence from his office, returned to it to find that he had risen in salary and seniority while away, and was now a principal clerk, has its parallel in real life.

A certain young man became a member of the French civil service in 1922, and from that time a hat, a coat, and a pair of gloves at his desk bore mute testimony to his existence. This evidence was confirmed by his regularity in collecting his salary. But, otherwise, he was never seen or heard of at his office.

He was transferred to another office, and his hat, coat and gloves changed their quarters. But otherwise there was no change. Eventually it was discovered that he was a professional dancer, and was too busy to attend the office.

The authorities were shocked, and resolved that the young man must be punished. But the only two possible punishments were dismissal and reduction in grade. The first seemed too severe; as for the second, the young man was already in the lowest grade. Finally, the Gordian knot was cut—the young man was promoted, and then immediately reduced to his former status.

Famous Roman Baths Have Been Overrated

We go to the movies and see scenes arranged to impress us with the luxury of the old Roman baths in use 2,000 years ago: and very few of us realize how superior the up-to-date bathroom is to those costly ancient edifices. So says a well-known maker of up-to-date bathrooms.

The Roman baths, he continues, were built, as a rule, by the emperors, their cost being too great for a private individual. Crude and clumsy was the method by which the water was heated and carried from one pool to another. Although it was changed continually, every one bathed in the same water, and soap was unknown The baths were open only at certain hours of the day, an admission price was charged and their use was limited to nobles and freemen of the city.

In Greece marble slabs were hollowed out and filled with water, which was splashed or poured from urns over the head or body of the bather. Down through the Middle ages plumbing fixtures, as we understand the term, were unknown.

Live in Fear of "Devils"

In practically all parts of New Guinea the natives believe that the "tamarangs" or evil spirits come out as soon as it is dark and are constantly on the watch for stray negroes, says the Detroit News Fortunately, however, the devils are quite unable to pass fire at night, so a village is protected by a ring of smouldering fires about it. Sometimes the fires are placed in a circle around the settlement and sometimes just four are made, one at each corner of the place Inside this protective belt the negro has no fear whatever of the "tamarangs," but in the case of the bush natives especially all the tinned meat and jew's-harps in New Guinea would not tempt him outside it before dawn in districts known to be afflicted with devils.

His Excuse

Mother's face wore an exasperated look as she rapped her little son smartly on the knuckles

Johnny would persist in putting the food into [illegible] with his knife instead of his fork, and time and again mother had told him about it.

"Sonny," she said angrily, "how many times have I told you that you must not eat with your knife. Use your fork."

"Yes; but mamma," objected the little boy, "I must use my knife, 'cos my fork leaks."

Stories about clowns are in vogue One concerning Bill Buck a famous clown of half a lifetime ago, would have delighted that artist of the flour paste countenance.

Two old ladies, standing in a queue for the pit of a theater, fell to discussing the merits of the various clowns they had seen.

Said one, summing up her impressions: "But I think I like Mr. Buck best of them all—such a nice clown! There's nothing vulgar about him—he never makes you laugh."

Belief Seems Justified

A Greenville (Me) newspaper says that it is a very old Indian tradition that all the bull moose of eastern and northern Maine make journeys to the west shores of Moosehead lake at the close of the year for the purpose of casting their antlers. "Though the story has passed for fiction among the residents, there are not a few old hunters and woodsmen who believe it, and relate tales about the abundance of moose antlers among the maple woods 25 miles north of this village"

Tempered Criticism

He was only twelve, but he contrived to throw the apple of discord into the boarding-house to which he had been sent for convalescence after influenza.

It came about because they all read the postcard he had left on the hall table

He had written: "There are three extraordinary old geesers stopping here, but one of them is rather a decent old geeser as geesers go."

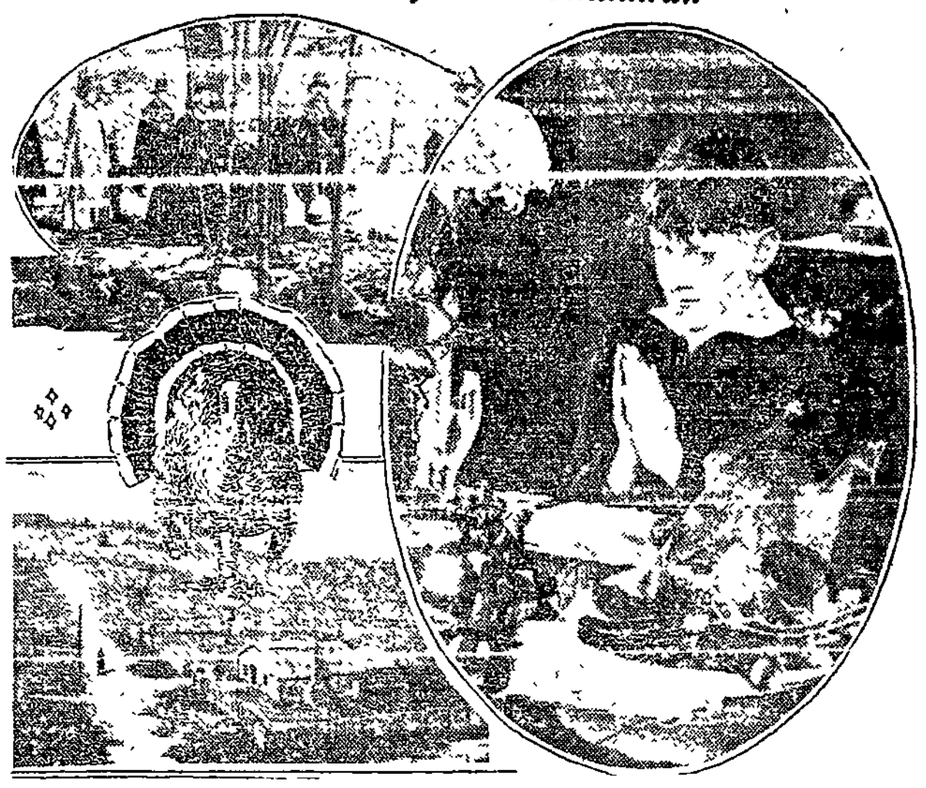
For What May We Be Thankful?



When the first Thanksgiving proclamation was made it came from a humble log cabin in a little clearing in the wilderness with armed men constantly on guard to warn the settlers against a possible attack by Indians The few friendly Indians were the only guests. Likewise when the Pilgrims attended church services they went armed. Today a bountiful feast is spread and partaken of in the security of a warm, well lighted home with friends who may have traveled many miles to attend the feast, but their coming was attended by no hardships with the luxury of modern travel

BOOTLEGGERS ARE GETTING SHARE OF THE BOOZE

Washington, Nov. 21—The startling charge that 6,000,000 gallons of government-controlled alcohol, one tenth of all used in this country, have reached the hands of bootleggers so far this year was made by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league here today.

Wheeler estimated that this alcohol reached the market in the shape of 48,000,000 quarts of gin and whiskey of 50 per cent alcoholic content.

"We have traced this alcohol and know where it went," Wheeler said. "It was taken out of storehouses on permit by manufacturers who represented themselves as bonafide users of inlustrial alcohol, but who diverted it to bootleggers."

Mrs. Steve Horvath was hostess to the members of the Wednesday 500 club of North Charleroi at her home in Railroad street, Wednesday. The time was spent in cards and an enjoyable evening was spent. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

Belle Vernon Bridge club members, nine in number, were entertained at the home of Mrs. John J. Kilroy of Meadow avenue last evening with a six o'clock dinner. "Prisons" May Yet Be Maintained in Open

Prison in the open air seems a contradiction in itself, for the very word "prison" calls up the idea of incarceration in locked and walled-up buildings.

However, there is such a thing, and it is in Holland that very successful experiments have been made with outdoor prisons.

Sixty persons were drafted to the town of Veenhuizen, to serve their term there. Their task was to convert moorland into cultivated field, and they showed themselves very industrious in the undertaking. They are divided into gangs, each containing a few persons, but are not supervised or watched by any sort of warder or official; these prisoners may live in common and advance their social sense, unsubjected to supervision.

The foreman of each gang is, however, not a prisoner, but a workman who joins voluntarily. It would not be difficult to escape under such conditions, but no one has hitherto attempted to do so. The environment is much more favorable than in an ordinary prison, and the Dutch government is considering setting up several centers of this sort.

What Your Eyes Tell

We are told that the eyes of the intellectual man are gray, and it is a fact that most men of genius have gray eyes. Brown eyes are said to express temperament rather than intellect.

Although brown eyes flash with anger, light up with joy, and change swiftly with jealousy, blue and gray eyes can express greater sadness.

Green and black eyes are supposed to be the most wicked. Becky Sharp's green eyes played an important part in her various conquests.

The "vamp" in modern fiction usually possesses flashing eyes of either green or black. Actually, there are no black eyes; dark brown or dark gray eyes have the appearance of being black in certain lights.

Human Mind Beat Machine

A French lightning calculator, M. Inaudi, was recently pitted against twelve of the latest types of calculating machine. The human machine carried off all but one of the honors.

M. Inaudi easily beat his mechanical competitors in the speed with which he solved problems in addition, subtraction, division and finding the square or the cube, but in the first round—extracting the square root of a number—a machine came out first. In the third round, which consisted of complicated problems, the man won easily.

Men and Instincts

[illegible] instinct as almost non-existent in man, whereas reason was denied to animals. Later scientists hold differently, among them having been Prof. William James, who maintained that man has as many instincts as animals. He further maintained that instinct played a leading part in the determination of all human conduct. McDougal, the eminent philosopher, goes still further and says that man's organisms would become incapable of activity of any kind if instinctive dispositions with their powerful impulses were taken away.

In Society's Realm

The regular monthly meeting of the Norpha club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ruth Reeves of Fourth street. The leader for the meeting was Mrs. Hazel McKita, who read an interesting paper on "Foreign Contributions to American Life." Following the program, adelicious luncheon was served by the hostess. Mrs. G. W. Smith of St. Mary's W. Va., was a visiting guest present

Members of the Merry Menders club were entertained last evening at thehome of Mrs. Howard Libengood of Oakland avenue with seven present. The time was pleasantly passed in sewing and social converse and at a late hour luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. John Chesman. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chesman of McKean avenue, Tuesday November 25.

[illegible] the members of the sewing club of the Thomas P. Tweed company store last night at the home of Miss Gertrude Fries of Fallowfield avenue in their regular bi-monthly meeting. Sewing and social converse were among the chief diversions followed by the serving of a dainty luncheon in the dining room. Covers were laid for ten. Miss Fries was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. John Fries. The next meeting will be held Thursday, January 2.

Miss Isabel K. Murray entertained a number of girl friends at her home in Meadow avenue last evening. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Raymond Kell, who before her recent marriage was Miss Sue C. Provins and the friends that gathered at the Murray home last night showered the bride with many beautiful and useful gifts. An enjoyable evening of cards and social converse was spent, followed by the serving of a dainty luncheon by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Andrew Murray. Thanksgiving favors were given each guest. Those attending from out-of-town were Misses Margaret Jeffries, Kathryn Crowshore and Sarah Springer, of Belle Vernon.

There were approximately 25 members and friends present at the regular meeting of the Self Denial class of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church held last evening at the home of Mrs. Elmer Gamble of Center avenue, North Charleroi. Mrs. W. C. Walters president of the class, presided over the business session, which was followed by a social hour, fancywork, sewing and social talk, being the chief diversions. Luncheon was served by the hostess and the assisting hostesses, Mrs. Russell Metz, Mrs. Clarence Clark and Mrs. William Foulks. The next meeting will be in the form of the annual Christmas party to be held in the Sunday school room of the church next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Molle entertained at their Crest avenue home from 4 to 6 o'clock last evening with a birthday party in honor of their daughter Doris Marie, who celebrated her fifth anniversary. The evening was enlivened by games and music, at the close of which the small guests were ushered into the dining room which was beautifully decorated, pink and white being the prevailing colors, and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Molle assisted by Mrs. Mike Vegso. As Doris Marie blew out the candles on the birthday cake, the thirty-five little guests wished her many happy returns of the day. Small pink and white baskets filled with candy of corresponding color were presented the guests. Doris Marie received many beautiful gifts.

MAY BE NO MORE PUBLICITY OF TAX RETURNS

Washington, Nov. 21.—A partial poll of congress indicates there may be no more publicity of income tax returns.

The reaction from the recent publication by newspapers of tax totals is swinging, strong sentiment in both houses and it now appears inevitable that some modification of the new law will be made at the December short session.

A number of Democrats and Republicans who voted for tax publicity are changing their minds along with Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic leader, who renounced the new law for which he had voted.

But the swing of sentiment has made no change in the position of the LaFollette group which favored the act. Senator George Morris, Nebraska, acting leader of the mid-western "progressives" announced today that he would fight for even more complete publicity if an attempt was made to tamper with the present law.

Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee is preparing an amendment which will be introduced as soon as congress re-convenes.

POPE PUTS O. K. ON OWN POLISH PACT

Rome, Nov. 20.—Achilles Ratti, as Pope Pius XI, has approved the work of Achilles Ratti, apostolic nuncio to Poland. This is the first time that the Polish republic has made a treaty with the Holy See and it gives the Sovereign Pontiff the opportunity of endorsing the relations he advocated while he represented Benedict XV in the Polish capital.

M. Grabsky, brother of the Polish foreign minister, came to Rome to draw up the final draft of the concordat between the Vatican and Poland. Conferences have been held between Cardinal Gasparri and M. Grabsky in which many of the subjects discussed had already been settled by Monsignor Ratti, an apostolic nuncio. Arrival at full agreement therefore was easy for there was almost identity of views between what the Polish government wanted and what the Vatican proposed.

The Pope, ever since his short assignment in the diplomatic service in Poland, has always retained the tenderest feelings for the Polish people. It is learned in Vatican circles that he regarded with unusual interest the progress of the pourparlers and looked forward to the signing of the concordant with no uncertain pleasure as it crowns the work he performed in Northeastern Europe with success.

The problems during his Polish mission were complicated. Besides having the remnants of three civil administrations, such as the German, Austrian and Russian, h was confronted with the intricate demands of the three rites—Catholic, Greek and Orthodox. He kept on equally friendly terms with all and besides won the admiration of the then newly-formed Polish republic for his tact and skill.

When he was elected Titular Archbishop of Naupacte, he chose to be consecrated in the Cathedral at Warsaw.

Woman's Attempt To Feed Cows For Naught, Is Unavailing

Squire Paul R. Nutt was adjudicator of a unique case last night in which Bentleyville women were the principals. The prosecutor, Mrs. Mary Twitz, alleged that the defendant, Mrs. Sophie Kubalick, chopped down her fence and turned her cows into the yard to her haystack the inference being that this could be done more cheaply than buying hay. The charge preferred was malicious mischief, and the defendant was fined by the Squire $20 and costs.

The case, which was not devoid of interesting features, brought to the Squire's office a number of witnesses. The women reside next to each other.

burg, all of whom testified that she would do anything of this kind

Ernest E. Balin, of Columbus, O. io, an Indian medicine seller, entered a plea of guilty yesterday before Judge James I Brownson to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was sentenced to pay the [illegible] days in the county jail, to be reduced to [illegible] days if the fine and costs be paid, sentence to date from date of commitment.

Balin was arrested last Tuesday by Corporal R. S. Rupert of the State Highway patrol on West Chestnut street, Washington, after the Ford truck which he was driving had backed into the car of the Rev. F. W. Perkins. In the machine with Balin was his wife who had been driving until slowly before the accident. On West Chestnut street hill she had trouble with the brakes and Balin took the wheel. Just afterwards the accident occurred. Balin admitted his guilt and frankly told what had happened.

The truck is used by Balin in his work of selling Indian medicine. Several snakes with which his wife [illegible] sale make up part of his equipment. These reptiles are being cared for by Mrs. Balin while her husband serves his sentence.

RESPOND TO PETITION TO OUST THEM

ents, it appears to be the purpose of the petitioners to have the resignations set aside and the ouster proceedings prevail.

At the same time the respondents answered to the surcharges made against them by the auditors of Redstone township.

The respondents are represented by Attorneys H. S. Dumbaluld, Joseph J. Bauer, and Arthur Eyrne.

R. A. Junk and Queenie Canezzi also members of the directorate who did not resign, are represented by C. W. Rush.

The petitioners are represented by W. J. Sturgis and Frank Lane.

[illegible] was the first business called. He testified that his home is at Chestnut Ridge and that he became a member of the Redstone Township School board in December, 1919. He was elected secretary in July, 1924, and served until November 1.

[illegible] was elected chairman at a meeting of the new board held on October 13, at which time it was organized.

Considerable time was occupied with the reading of the minutes of the sessions of October 4 and 6, the purpose being to show from these minutes that the directors had knowledge of the existence of the petition being prepared for filing, their defense being that they were not members of the Redstone Township School board at the time the petition was prepared.

Mr. Hankins admitted that the audit of the school accounts had begun July 1 and that the members surcharged had been called before the auditors to explain items that had been surcharged.

The new board members named by the court are Duncan Sinclair, D. C. Ryan, J. B. Wyatt, Ray Davis, and E. C. Lewis. Duncan Sinclair was elected president of the board at the meeting of October 13.

SCOTT CONVICTED OF RAE'S MURDER

Two first degree murder verdicts were returned in the Westmoreland County court yesterday. James Scott, negro, was convicted of the murder of Police Chief George Rae of West Newton, and James Fame was found guilty of having murdered James Sauisi, of Braeburn. Scott was arrested at Beckley, West Virginia, and returned to Greensburg for trial. The verdict in each case was returned after the jury had deliberated all night.

Scott is accused of having shot Chief of Police George Rae in West Newton about the middle of September last. He escaped at the time, but was later apprehended in West Virginia. The shooting of Rae, who was a popular officer and citizen of West Newton, raised the ire of the people of that town and all who knew the dead man.

Remembered by His Deeds

The little fishing town of Lossiemouth on the northeastern coast of Scotland has for its patron saint, St. Geraldine. This little known saint according to legendary history, is said to have sojourned on that coast in 924. His home was a cave, and it was his custom to perambulate the sands on stormy nights holding up a lantern to warn mariners away from the Skerries. Geraldine's effigy, with the insignia of the legend, is engraved on the burgh seal, together with a ship and the legend, "Per Noctem Lux."

Cutting the "Gordian Knot"

This expression has its origin in the tale of Gordius, a Phrygian peasant, owner of a yoke of oxen, who became king. He dedicated his car and oxen to Zeus, and the knot of the yoke was tied so skillfully that an oracle declared that whomsoever should unloose it would be ruler of Asia. When Alexander the Great came to Gordium he cut the knot in two with his sword and applied the prophecy to himself.

MILLIONS OUT OF JOBS ALL THE TIME

Sage Foundation Completes Five-Year Survey.

New York.—Averaging good and bad years, 10 to 12 per cent of all the workers in the United States, several millions of men and women, are out of work all the time, and widespread unemployment is now a constant phenomenon with far-reaching economic, social, psychological and moral bearings. These are some of the facts brought out in the introduction to the report of a five-year study of employment methods, needs and agencies made public here by the Russell Sage foundation.

In seeking work through certain types of commercial or fee-charging employment bureaus, particularly those dealing with unskilled and casual labor, thousands of men and women are being exploited, and public employment bureaus or exchanges can make a material contribution toward the solution of this and other phases of the ever-recurring problem of unemployment, the report continues.

It is made clear in the report that the figures on unemployment while representing the average of the country's experience during the last two decades, are not necessarily indicative of present conditions or of the last year.

Completed Report Voluminous.

The investigation, which extended into more than seventy cities in thirty-one states and Canada, has just been completed. The full report, covering more than 600 printed pages, will be issued shortly. The survey was conducted by a staff of trained field investigators, all of whom had previously been engaged in employment work, under the direction of Shelby M. Harrison, director of the foundation's department of surveys and exhibits.

Practically every known means for bringing work and the worker together was studied. The "want ad" pages of newspapers, the fee-charging labor agencies, the free public employment office, the labor union's method of securing work for its members, the fraternal order's activities in this field, the practice of applying for work at the factory gate or the office door, all were investigated. The report points out the advantages and disadvantages to employer and employee in each of these means and its effect on the general employment situation.

A special study was made of the situation in Ohio, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and New York, where there has been the greatest development of organized public employment work. Separate studies were made also of the special problems of farm labor, migratory and casual workers, junior workers, handicapped workers, immigrants, negro workers and professional workers.

Workers Resent Insecurity.

After citing the fact that each year from 1,000,000 to 6,000,000 persons are out of work for weeks and sometimes for months at a time, the introduction to the foundation's forthcoming report says:

"There is something which we are just beginning to recognize, a resentment on the part of the workers against an industrial situation in which such insecurity and uncertainty of employment are possible. It is not only unemployment but the fear of unemployment, the knowledge that any job is uncertain and insecure, subject to the fluctuations of economic change, which are responsible for much of our present industrial unrest."

This situation, the report says, has been aggravated by the fact that the unskilled worker who has sought employment through certain types of labor agencies in many cases has been subjected to such abuses as paying a fee and then failing to get a job, being sent to distant points where no work or where unsatisfactory work exists, but whence he could not return because of the expense involved, being employed through collusion between the agent and employer and after a few days' work being discharged to make way for a new workman while the agent and employer divided the fee.

The report further says: "One conclusion drawn from such findings has been that we must have public bureaus to take the place of the private fee-charging agencies. That is, in so far as people are informed on the question and have expressed their sentiments, most of them appeared convinced that we should have public employment bureaus because of the abuses of some fee-charging agencies, quite regardless of other considerations. In addition, however, the feeling has been growing that this service in the nature of the case should be free, and that the very fact of fee-charging carries with it a dangerous temptation to abuse and fraud.

Malady Kills Deer

Alturas, Cal.—A mysterious malady is killing the deer in Modoc county in great numbers, according to reports received here from hunters. An Alturas physician saw 40 deer dead on the lava beds of Hog lake. Stomachs of several of the animals have been brought here for examination.

Meteor Dug Up

[illegible] pounds, believed to be a part of a meteor or aerolite, was dug from the sand of Colfax lake by J. A. Marr and brought to Eau Claire for examination. Marr found the curio while seining minnows.

And now they say that Captain Kidd was no pirate at all but merely a chaser of pirates carrying letters of marque and reprisal from the Prince of Orange. And so goes—if this be true—one more bit of the old romance of the sea.

body of Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, who died today at White Oaks, probably will be placed beside that of her husband in the receiving vault at Marion cemetery.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m., at Epworth Methodist Episcopal church of which Mrs. Harding has been a member since girlhood. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of the Epworth church, and Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, will officiate at the services.

Mrs. Harding's body was taken from White Oaks Farm today to the home of Mrs. Frank J. Longshore, a niece.

Telegrams notifying them of Mrs. Harding's death were sent today to President Coolidge, and all members of his cabinet, by George W. Christian and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer.

PRESIDENT SENDS CONDOLENCE

Washington, Nov. 21—President Coolidge today sent the following message of condolence on Mrs. Harding's death to George Christian, secretary of President Harding:

"Please express to the members of Mrs. Harding's family the sincerest condolences of Mrs. Coolidge and myself. We share in the fullest measure the sorrow which her death brings to them. We are disappointed that her brave fight was in vain, but it is a source of pride to know that she made it and made it so valiantly as to arouse the admiration of her countless friends.

"We shall never forget her unfailing and helpful friendship for us, which will become an increasingly sweet and grateful memory. The nation mourns for her. Our deepest sympathy goes out to those nearest and dearest to her."

TRADING BOOM CONTINUES IN STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 21.—Continuing to break all records, the stock exchange entered the 15th day of the great post-election trading boom today with a prospect that total shares dealt in since the conservative electoral victory would pass 30,000,000 shares tonight.

Prospects of a 3,000,000 share day in the near future were discussed in the street following the new high record of 2,616,400 shares yesterday.

Buying orders still poured from all parts of the country as the market continued its unprecedented activity.

The market closed today with the average for 50 representative stocks showing an appreciation of .42 on the day's trading.

Railroad issues enjoyed the greatest gain, advancing .81 points to 76.89, while industrial stocks remained almost stationary, closing at 126.11.

A deluge of outside buying continued to be the main feature of the hectic trading.

First Use of Envelopes

Envelopes were not in common use until about 1820. In 1825 Lamb mentions the envelope and in "Harry Lorrequer," published by Charles Lever in 1837, is this quotation: "The waiter entered with a small note in an envelope." It is claimed that envelopes were used in France before they were introduced in England, and there seems to be good ground for the claim. When they first came on the French market they were very dainty novelties and were made from the most expensive and delicate papers. They were used only by the wealthy and were considered a fad. They were used by the public in England in a limited way between 1830 and 1839.—Pathfinder Magazine.

How Birds Bathe

The most elaborate dressers of the animal world are the birds, all of whom take baths whenever possible. Some of them use earth, sand or dust. When these find a suitable spot they scratch up the surface and then shuffle backward, moving legs and wings and working the grit right through their feathers.

Most birds, however, are water bathers. Some, such as the kingfisher, plunge right in. This bird usually dives from a branch, entering the water with open wings and making a great splash. In addition to his morning toilet, the kingfisher has a complete bath after eating fish that he catches, so that he often takes a dozen feasts during the day.

So Was This Charleroi Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Charleroi case is one of many:

Mrs. Olin Harper, 224 Washington Ave., says: "I was taken with an attack through the small of my back became so lame I couldn't do much of anything. When I stooped, sharp pains darted through the small of my back and I felt miserable. Dizziness came on when I made a quick move. Doan's Pills fixed me up in fine shape and I know my cure is permanent."

PERU AND BOLIVIA PLAN CELEBRATION

Centenary of Overthrow of Spanish Rule.

Lima, Peru.—Peru and Bolivia are preparing for what promises to be the greatest celebration the two nations have had—the centenary of the battle of Ayachucho, the conflict which marked the overthrow of the Spanish yoke and the independence of Peru. For fifteen days, from December 9 until next Christmas day, the governments of both nations will stage the celebration in Ayachucho, the literal translation of which is the "Corner of Death."

Invitations have been acknowledged by almost every European and South American nation, and the United States is to be represented at the fete. The fact that the event is staged at the most desirable period of the winter season, many Americans have already engaged quarters at the leading hotels and will take part in the festivities.

President Leguia of Peru has had a staff of officials busy since early in the year, who, aided by the Bolivian officials, have arranged a program of events which will surpass anything attempted in either nation. While the principal features of the program will be staged in Ayachucho, Lima will also be in full dress for the occasion, as will be all the other towns throughout the republics.

Anniversary of Battle.

The opening of the celebration will take place December 9, the centenary of the Battle of Ayachucho, a battle compared by historians to the Battle of Yorktown. For as the latter conflict marked the overthrow of the British and the beginning of America's independence, the fight in Ayachucho accomplished liberty for the Peruvians.

A reproduction of the famous battle will be the opening gun of the celebration and Peruvian and Bolivian forces will be "combatants." After the smoke of "battle" has cleared away a gigantic statue to Marshal Sucre will be unveiled on the battlefield. In addition there will be opened in Ayachucho a memorial pantheon and museum.

The city will be transformed into a fair, and products of the region, including gold, silver, cobalt, copper, cacao, sugar, cotton, tobacco, grain, alfalfa, pottery, cattle and other live stock will be displayed. Just outside the city overlooking the battlefield, an airdrome has been erected where flying stunts will be staged and the sports of the nations indulged in. Special quarters, too, are being erected for the housing of army and navy delegations from other lands.

"The Corner of Death."

The city of Ayachucho is derived from the Quechaua Indian word meaning "the corner of death." Founded by Pizarro in 1539 as a military colony in the midst of a country filled with discontented and threatening Indians, the settlement helped to maintain communications between Cuzco and Lima. It was strongly fortified.

During the civil wars which broke out among the conquerors, Vaca de Castro, the king's representative, fought young Almagro, the rebel, near Ayachucho, defeating and beheading the half caste son of Pizarro's original partner in the conquest. Later Gonzalo Pizarro, brother of the conqueror, pursued and defeated L. Blasco Nunez, the arrogant viceroy, in Ayachucho, and in 1547 Pedro de la Gasco, Spanish high commissioner, here defeated Gonzalo and then decapitated him.

In 1823, when the independence of Peru, which apparently had been won but two years before, seemed to be lost again, Ayachucho was the scene of a decisive battle against the forces of the Spanish crown. Before the battle Marshal Sucre declared: "On our work today depends the destiny of South America." Bolivar, the Washington of South America, had been called to the sea coast and Sucre's army had been harried and pursued three days by the army of the Viceroy La Serna.

At length the two armies were drawn up on opposing heights. Although the battle opened with reverses for the patriots, it ended in defeat of the royal troops. That same afternoon the surrender was signed three hundred years dominion.

Shake Gold From Coins to Pay for China War

New York.—"How is the petty, impoverished warlord of China able to pay his soldiers, when his exchequer, like that of most of the present military leaders, is dilapidated?"

This question is subject to all sorts of conjecture, but it is certain that "money shaking" is again resorted to with the same vigor that accompanied the Chinese struggles of the past.

Whenever a military leader plans a private war he converts most of his spare money into American gold pieces. This done, he hires squadrons of Chinese coolies, each of whom is given a leather bag containing from $100 to $200 in gold. The coolies for many hours keep up a continuous jingling of their bag-imprisoned coins.

The bombardment of one coin against the other causes microscopic particles of gold to be jarred loose. These particles gradually collect until a sizable pile of yellow dust accumulates. This is carefully poured out and sold. The coins themselves, although slightly worn, are never questioned for their value in the native marts.

American election campaign methods shine in comparison with English in at least one particular. No stump speaker over here is ever howled down and forced to quit, even in the roughest neighborhoods.

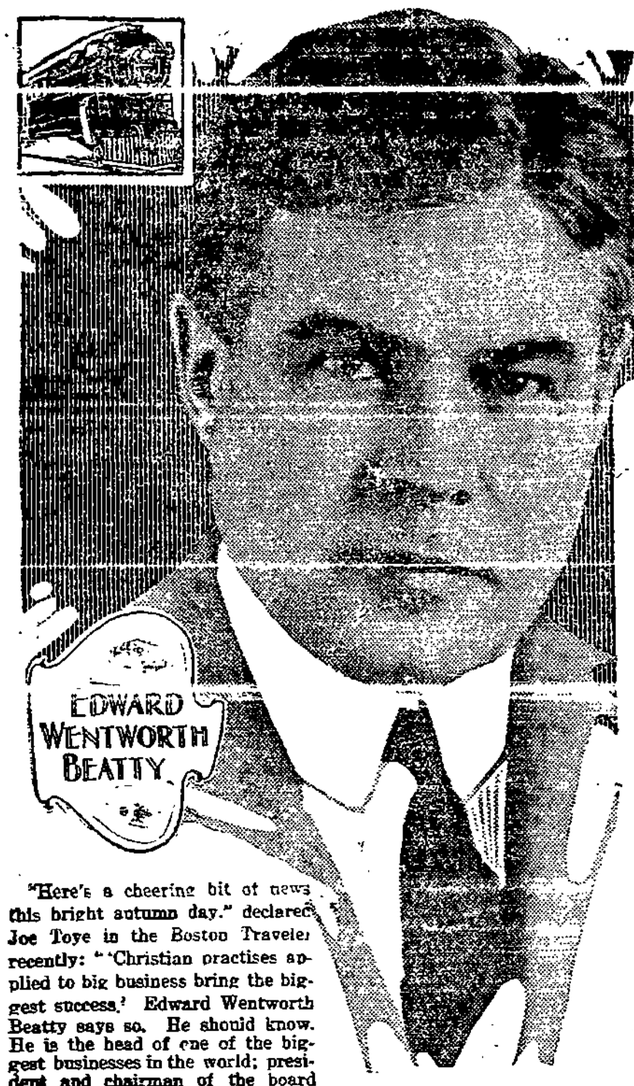
Christian Methods Help Big Business to Succeed



"Here's a cheering bit of news this bright autumn day," declared Joe Toye in the Boston Traveler recently: "'Christian practises applied to big business bring the biggest success.' Edward Wentworth Beatty says so. He should know. He is the head of one of the biggest businesses in the world; president and chairman of the board of directors of an industry that employs more than 100,000 men and owns more than 120,000 miles of telegraph lines, 13 first-class hotels, a $17,000,000 irrigation enterprise, a fleet of nearly 100 big steamships, a 19,800 mile railroad and hundreds of thousands of acres of farm and mineral lands—the Canadian Pacific Railway and its associate companies.

"Mr. Beatty is in Boston and I interviewed him at his hotel. It is his 47th birthday anniversary. For six years he has headed what is almost a small empire. He was only 41 when he became president of the great railway company. And it is a great company; it can carry you almost anywhere in the world, house you, feed you, even supply a camel or donkey for you 600 miles up the Nile, in Egypt. I know. It was altogether encouraging to talk with this relatively young man. 'Modesty' is a trite word, but it fits him; he isn't shy, he is direct and sincere, and has a horror of being quoted in the first person. A big Bostonian once said that in Boston one is not old enough for a big job until he is 45, and then he is too old. What did Mr. Beatty think of that? Would he explain how he, at the age of 41, became head of the Canadian Pacific Railway?

"And he explained. Opportunity, he said, did it. If the opportunity came when one was young, so much the better, one arrived at the pinnacle of success while still young. He had entered the employ of the railway when he was 23, as an attorney. Time went on, and he became chief counsel. 'Because there was a vacancy.' Then he became vice president and finally president. Simple!

"'That is the unvarnished story,' he announced calmly. Quite unvarnished! Nothing of his own ability to fill the jobs offered him. None of that.

"'Will you explain how it is done, so that other young men may know?' he was asked. There was no explanation other than the presence of opportunity and making the most of it. It wasn't strange that a young man should have an important position. In England things were different. There it is believed that old age brings wisdom. The United States and Canada were young men's countries. Then he started to tell how a young man holds down a big job, but he declined to use himself as an example.

"Can a man conduct a big business and at the same time adhere to Christian practices?" I asked him. That seemed to me to have a very important bearing on the happiness of a people. He thought so, too.

"'Certainly,' he agreed, with enthusiasm and absolutely without hesitation. 'Looking at the subject solely from a practical standpoint, it is best to play fair with everybody, with your employees and competitors and the public. In England this year at the advertising convention at Wembley, American advertising men told how honesty in advertising pays best. The same is true of other business. The square deal is the best policy after all. Big business is not coming to realize it. Big business has realized it all along, but as time goes on more and more big enterprises are finding it is best to play fair.'

"If big business is honest and conducts its affairs along Christian lines, will that business make more money?" Mr. Beatty was asked.

"'Unquestionably,' he stated.

"Aside from all that, Mr. Beatty's father was born in Ireland and his mother was a New Englander. He is a bachelor and doesn't play golf. He wears his hat at the same angle that Admiral Beatty wears his. He looks younger than he is, and I should judge he would be a good man in a fight."

Storks in Great Britain

A Welsh lad was recently attacked by a large stork which was believed to have been blown from Holland by storms. It is a somewhat strange fact that storks have refused to breed in the British isles except in Kew gardens. There a pair started housekeeping in the year of King Edward's coronation, and clearly copied the design for their grotesque nest between the two elm trees from a Coronation bonfire. They met with a multitude of misfortunes. One year a storklet fell from the nest and broke its neck; in another year a nestling was slain by a barnacle goose. A culminating disaster was the drowning of an entire family by a thunderstorm. When the "storks' mound" becomes a congested district, superfluous storklets are exported to populate other districts.

Oysters Sold on Boughs

The traveler in the West Indies has the opportunity of viewing the novel sight of gathering oysters from trees. Around the harbors and lagoons the mangrove trees grow down to the water's edge. Their branches droop until a part of them is submerged. Oysters will cling to any surface in the water to which they can fasten themselves, and as there are few shelves or stones along the shores the bivalves attach themselves to the branches. When the natives go oyster gathering they lean over the side of the boat, find a branch to which oysters are clinging, and cut it off, and the bivalves are sold on the tree.

Boy Knew His Business

Mr. Peters brought a piece of cloth home to have a suit made. The family, examining the goods spread out on the table, remarked upon the fine quality and pattern. Even little Ronald was called upon to give his opinion of father's new suit.

He turned the stuff on the wrong side and began to examine it.

"Ronald," said old Peters, "that is the wrong side. How stupid you are!"

"Why stupid?" answered the boy. "You bet it won't come to me until it's turned on the wrong side."—Exchange.

Dates From Pagan Times

Halloween is a relic of pagan times. In England the influence of Druidical ceremonies is evidenced in the ancient Halloween fires. Certain of the customs which used to prevail in England were survivals of Pomona, the goddess of fruit. Halloween is called by this name because the festival falls on the evening of October 31, which is the eve or vigil of All Hallows, the festival of All Saints, which falls on November 1.

Martyr-Soldier's Bible Given Place of Honor

In the king's private library at Windsor castle, as well as in the king's library at the British museum, the Bibles are a special feature, and if it were possible to imagine these treasures being put up to auction at one of the famous salesrooms, all the collectors in the world would gather [illegible].

But it is not an illuminated Bible, over which some monk spent half a lifetime, or the earliest printed Bible, or a "Breeches" Bible, or even a "Bugge" Bible—so called because it says, in a certain well-known psalm: "Thou shalt not be afrayed for any bugges by night"—which is the best-guarded and most honored copy of the Scriptures.

This distinction belongs to a worn, even tattered copy of the Scriptures, just the ordinary limp-backed little Bible which thousands of people take to church or keep in readiness there. This Bible lies open, upon a beautiful cushion, enclosed in an exquisite old casket, in a window of Windsor castle.

The open page is much soiled and thumbed, certain passages are underlined and there are numerous pencilled notes in the margin. This is General Gordon's Bible, given by his sister to Queen Victoria.—London Tit-Bits.

Thought for Next Day

Has No Place in Congo

In many parts of the Congo horses are unknown and the natives are as terrified at them as at an elephant or a hippo, says Mme. Gabrielle M. Vassal in the London Graphic.

Though the food ration of the Congo natives is most frugal, consisting chiefly of manioc, it is at least regular, and in this starving country is the chief attraction to them and keeps them as a whole cheerful and healthy. The Congo population is always hungry, if not starving; it is impossible to sound the depths of their laziness and want of thrift. They never think of the next day. When they are paid they buy a white helmet, a tweed cap or a knitted tam-o'-shanter, though their thick frizzled hair really needs no covering. The reason for cannibalism in the Congo is hunger more than anything else, says Mme. Vassal.

Thought He Was Singing

From the well-known big-game hunter, F. C. Cornell, comes the story of how one evening he was returning to camp in South Africa from a prospecting expedition, unarmed and alone, when, to his horror, he found himself stalked by three leopards.

"Knowing from experience that most wild beasts are frightened by the human voice," says Mr. Cornell, 'I let out a yell that scared even myself, and repeated the dose every few yards of the way back, until I was as hoarse as a crow, and my yells began to lack vim.

"'Bit pleased with yourself, ain't you?' was my welcome on reaching camp. 'We heard you singing for the last hour or more. Thought you might have struck someone with whisky.'"—San Francisco Argonaut.

MAKE NEW RECORD IN LOADING CARS

Railroads Handle 1,102,336 Cars in Week.

Washington.—A new high record for loading freight cars, with its accompanying indication of business conditions, was made by American railroads during the week ended October 18.

During that week 1,102,336 cars were loaded with revenue freight, exceeding by more than 8,000 cars the previous high record of 1923. On one day alone, October 15, the railroads moved 1,030,211 cars, both loaded and empty, which if made up into one solid train would have reached from New York to San Francisco and return and then back to Omaha.

In a report issued recently, the American Railway association declares that while the weekly records of American railroading were being surpassed, the movement of freight was carried on without congestion or car shortage, and that there are 100,000 serviceable freight cars and 5,400 locomotives in surplus reserve.

Spend Much for Equipment.

The railroads, the report says, were enabled to make the new record because of their large expenditures for equipment and improvements; because of improved car distribution and because of the growing efficiency of the regional shippers' advisory boards having memberships representing all phases of agricultural and industrial production.

"Record-breaking grain crops have been moved without a single reported car shortage from the western states," says the report. "The California perishable producers heretofore have been confronted with periodical car shortages, but this year there was no shortage of refrigerator equipment."

Other Records Established.

In addition to the new high record for movement of revenue freight during the week ended October 18, the railroads made other new records.

More cars were loaded with miscellaneous freight; more cars were loaded with live stock and the new record was made for cars in movement on a single day. Loading of grain and grain products for the same comparative period were second only to the high record made two weeks earlier.

Coal showed a small decrease; merchandise and small lots, and forest products showed an increase over a year ago, but ore and coke showed a decrease.

All classes showed increases over the corresponding week two years ago, except in the eastern district.

Hunter Capitalizes Find Made on Quest for Quail

Lake Charles, La.—Tradition having it that a burro once kicked up a gold mine in the Rocky mountains, and that the copper deposits in the Southwest were found in a similar manner, folks in this section were not so greatly surprised when it developed that Louisiana's newest oil field was discovered by a quail hunter.

W. W. Lemoine, a local business man, who, during the open season, passes as much time in the fields as he does in his office, for years has been an inveterate prospector for oil, and about half his time on hunting trips was "wasted" exploring woods and marshes for traces of the "black gold."

Lemoine went hunting along Bagdad bayou, near here, one fine day three years ago, and came upon one Tillman, a negro recluse. The usual topic of conversation with Lemoine was oil, and he soon reached the subject. Tillman knew of no oil, but he did know where there was gas. The upshot was that Lemoine agreed to give Tillman an annuity of $1,800 a year if he would show him where it was, and if anything came of it.

Tillman led Lemoine straight across the country to Indian bayou, only a few miles from here, and there, in the edge of the marsh was the negro's "gas." Lemoine touched a match to it, and it burned.

Keeping his knowledge secret, Lemoine tied up 4,000 acres of land on leases, and an oil concern agreed to test the field. Two wells were sunk without result, and then the third brought in a gusher.

The usual horde has moved in, machinery and material for more wells and tanks are being transported to the field by the trainload.

Britons Fight to Save Historical Monuments

London.—Modernizing English towns at the expense of historical monuments is being condemned throughout the country by civic societies and persons interested in keeping together the glory that was England's.

The post-war unrest is particularly shown in smaller towns, where the authorities are destroying buildings and other historical monuments to make wide roads, parks and other necessities of modern municipal planning.

The secretary of the society for the protection of ancient buildings has addressed a protest to the prime minister and will seek to have a bill against allowing the destruction brought before parliament.

Several famous buildings have been destroyed during the last year, it is stated in the letter to the premier, including the Sixteenth century courthouse at Barking.

The society is also endeavoring to limit the destruction of ancient bridges which is going on over the country to meet the needs of the present-day heavy traffic.

"Butcher, mistaken for robber, nearly shot by detectives" says New York World. Whatdoya mean "mistaken?"

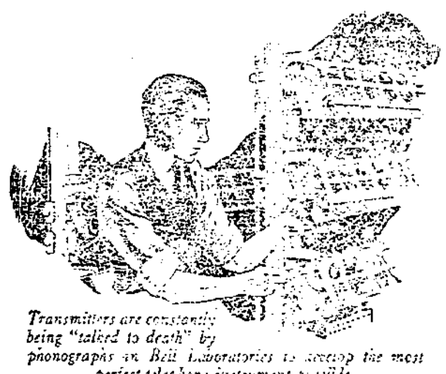
TELEPHONE PROGRESS—

The wire chief is a transmission expert. By day and night he tests the millions of miles of wire that service may be uninterrupted.



Transmitters are constantly being "talked to death" by phonographs in Bell Laboratories to develop the most perfect telephone instrument possible.

The enlargement of hundreds of switchboards in recent years has not retarded the development of a higher quality of service.

TODAY your telephone "talks" better than twenty or ten or even five years ago. Your voice travels with more force, greater clearness—what the telephone engineers call "better transmission."

It is apparent on local calls, and is even more noticeable on connections with distant cities. There are hundreds of the latter that couldn't be reached a decade ago, and calls to as many more were pretty much a gamble with limitations which have since been overcome.

How has this come about?

Invention and lopment.

During the pa few years of unprecedented telephone plant expansion the solution of the great problems arising from the war-time exhaustion of telephone facilities has not left neglected the scientific development of the existing service.

There has been constant advance. Telephone transmission is an important and understandable example. And in such things there is no let-up. More and better service is the principal aim of this company.

CHINA'S FIGHTS MAY OPEN TERRIBLE WAR

Sleeping Giant Is Believed to Be Awakening.

Washington, D. C.—After more than a decade of petty political bickering over the control of China the whole country now bids fair to break out in war to determine if unification can be effected by conquest. From Peking, the ancient capital in the north, to Canton, the vast river city in the south, troops are afoot. There are marchings and counter-marchings and the sound of firing is heard in many places, chiefly along a 25-mile front in the vicinity of Shanghai.

Gen. Chi Hsieh-yuan, anfu-tuchun or military governor of the province of Kiangsu, has flatly declared that the time has come when, if China is to be unified again into one great nation, it must be done by the sword. Whether the war which now is in progress will, in fact, be fought out to so bitter an issue or whether it will in a few months break up into minor conflicts between rival provincial governors remains to be seen. The immediate fact is that a million men are under arms.

The trouble started over the rivalry of two provincial governors. The city of Shanghai, with well over a million [illegible] is the new port of entry. It is the great port of foreign trade. Geographically it lies in the province of Kiangsu. It is commanded by Gen. Ho Feng-lin, the defense commissioner. To the southward of the province of Kiangsu and the city of Shanghai lies the important province of Chekiang. Its military governor is Gen. Lu Yung-hsiang. Although the city is outside his province he claims control over Shanghai. The defense commissioner is friendly to him and admits his claim.

Likened to New York's Seizure.

The situation may be put into American terms as follows: New York city lies in New York state. Connecticut is just over the border. The governor of Connecticut claims the right to rule and tax New York city. The mayor of New York city is willing to side with the governor of Connecticut. The governor of New York decides he will, by force, take charge of the city and oust the mayor.

That is the immediate situation, but what makes the situation one of world importance is that larger factors are entering.

Marshal Tsao Kun is president of China with his capital at the ancient imperial city of Peking. His greatest general is Marshal Wu Pei Fu who, in reality, is the stronger man of the two and dominates the president. These two are taking the side of the governor of Kiangsu who is attempting to take Shanghai. This might be compared to the president of the United States taking the side of the governor of New York in the imaginary American case being used as a parallel.

But China occupies a position now somewhat similar to that in this country at the time of the Civil war. South China has seceded from the rest of the country and has set up the South China republic, with Dr. Sun Yat Sen at its head. He makes his capital at the great city of Canton. He has taken sides with the defense commissioner of Shanghai and the governor of Chekiang. This may be compared to the President of the southern Confederacy at the time of the Civil war taking sides with the governor of Connecticut in the imaginary American comparison.

Now, in addition, there is far to the north the great Marshal Chang, the dictator of Manchuria and eastern Mongolia. He has taken the side of the governor of Chiang. This might be compared to the governor of Michigan, in our imaginary case, joining with the governor of Connecticut.

So there exists the alignment: President Tsao Kun, Marshal Wu Pei Fu and Governor Chi of Kiangsu on one side with President Sun Yat Sen, Marshal Chang, Governor Lu and the defense commissioner of Shanghai, Ho, on the other.

General Believed a Traitor.

There is another highly interesting military factor. General Feng is commander of the garrison of Peking. While nominally under President Tsao and Marshal Wu he is strongly suspected of having sympathies with the other side. At any moment he may throw his strength to it.

From 800,000 to 1,000,000 men are likely to participate in this war. The North China side apparently has the superiority in numbers. Marshal Wu Pei Fu, it is estimated, commands 330,000 men, General Feng, supposedly his ally, has 30,000, and General Chi somewhere near 100,000; Marshal Chang has about 150,000; Doctor Sun, 130,000; Governor Lu about 50,000, and the Shanghai commissioner a garrison of some thousands.

Blasphemers' Fines Pay for British Clubhouse

Durham, England.—Fines collected from blasphemers have paid for a handsome clubhouse opening recently at Newbrancepeth, a Durham colliery village.

The club was first suggested at a dance, where some men's "language" caused offense to a group of miners, who agreed, there and then, to stop swearing and to fine themselves if they broke their promise.

They formed the nonswearing club to receive the fines, and, strange to relate, new members were added with surprising rapidity. Eventually [illegible] a sharp ear out for blasphemers, who were called upon frequently to pay fines, and the infant club's exchequer soon waxed prosperous.

The President wants the Marines to change their motto, "Treat 'em rough" to "Treat 'em right." They could do so without changing their methods if, as is likely, they are convinced that the only way to treat 'em right is to treat 'em rough.

FINGER PRINTS ARE URGED FOR EVERYONE

Universal Registration for Police Record Asked

New York.—Nation-wide finger printing was advocated by police experts from many parts of the United States and Canada at their convention in this city. This form of registration, it was held, is necessary in all walks of life and should be made compulsory of every person, just as registration of births, marriages and deaths is required.

Joseph A. Faurot, third deputy commissioner of New York, and expert in means of identification, stated the experts' views as to the importance of finger-print registration.

"Each person," he declared, "carries about with him ten infallible witnesses to his identity. Each of the ten fingers of his two hands has anywhere from 100 to 200 distinguishable characteristics possessed by the finger of no other person in the world.

"Unlike all other means of identification, with the exception of the print of the bottom of the foot, finger prints do not change from birth to death, and by no means can they be altered or imitated.

"If every immigrant had his or her finger print taken, it would be impossible [illegible] to return under another name, as now. It would be invaluable to insurance companies in identification. Some banks already realize the necessity of finger prints both on deposit and withdrawal slips.

"The system of finger printing as a means of identifying criminals largely accounts for the antipathy some people evince when use is sought to be made of it in simplifying the normal daily affairs of life. It will be difficult to combat the strong prejudice against universal finger printing until people realize that in taking this infallible impression no violation of personal liberty is involved.

"What I hope for is a general registration of all finger prints, this to be required by law when a child is six years old."

Bells on Cats to Save Bird Life in Wichita

Wichita, Kans.—Cats may lose a considerable portion of their liberty in the near future in Wichita, if members of the Wichita Audubon society have their way.

Next spring a serious attempt is to be made to pass a city ordinance requiring that all cats wear bells so they can't sneak up on birds with murder in their hearts. All cats would be subject to this ordinance unless they were kept penned at all times, or unless they are used in warehouses, basements of homes and such places to catch rats.

Such ordinances are in effect in three cities—Montclair, N. J.; St. Petersburg, Fla., and Chautauqua, N. Y. They are said to be enforced in those cities and doing good in saving bird life.

W. T. Emery, teacher of biology in the Wichita high school, and head of the movement, points out that biologists in general and bird students in particular are directing attention to cats as carriers of disease. They are known to carry diphtheria, tuberculosis, sore throat, hydrophobia, tape worms and trichina worms. For this reason they should be kept tied up the same as dogs, it is pointed out.

Cinema Used in France in War on High Costs

Paris.—The cinema world has offered its services to aid in the campaign against the high cost of living now being made by the French government. The president of the association of cinema directors, Leon Brezilion, as an example of what might be done, suggests that the poor ear of corn as raised in the eastern provinces of France, which counts hardly fifty grains, might be contrasted on the screen with those from the Beauce country, which have three or four times as many. He would show also the latest forms of machinery for cultivation, and the most profitable methods of raising poultry.

Testifies in 5 Tongues, Sends Man to Prison

New York.—Sadie Abravaya, eight, a Spanish girl of 120 Orchard street, testified in five languages in Essex market court that Cafe Mameon, sixty-one, no address, insulted her. Magistrate Goodman sentenced Mameon to the workhouse for three months.

Sadie seemed so youthful that the magistrate was doubtful she could testify correctly in even one language. He asked her if she knew what would happen to her if she told a lie.

"I should say I do," replied Sadie. "I speak five languages, and I know a lie is a serious thing. If I told a lie I would go to hell."

Asked to tell her story, she began it in Hebrew, warmed to the recital in Italian, sidetracked to French and crashed into Spanish before Frederick C. Miller, court stenographer, could interpose a warning signal. When she became calmer Magistrate Goodman told her English would be satisfactory.

Senator Moses proves by Plutarch that corruption in government is nothing new. The complaint, however, is not because it is new but because it is demoralizing and destructive.

BUTTER LAMPS GIVE WAY TO ELECTRICITY

Capital of Tibet Takes Forward Step.

Washington, D. C.—"Lhasa, capital of Tibet, the Forbidden City which in all its existence has been visited by only a handful of white men, is reported about to make a jump into Twentieth century methods by constructing a hydroelectric plant," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society, which quotes from a communication to the society from John Claude White, one of the few westerners who was ever admitted to the city.

"Lhasa, the Place of the Gods, well deserves its name, as anything more beautiful can hardly be imagined than the vision of the sacred city set against its magnificent background of snow-capped mountains. Whether seen on a brilliant day, under a cloudless sky, during a thunderstorm, painted in soft, glowing tints by one of the wonderful sunsets seen only in Tibet, or by moonlight when with outlines softened and toned down, the Potala stands out like a phantom castle in ghostly splendor from among the shadows of its surrounding trees, all aspects are equally lovely.

City Dominated by Potala.

"The Potala is by far the finest building and eclipses all others in the beauty of its appearance. The present Potala was commenced in 1645 by the Grand Lama Nag-wang Lob-sang-Gya-tsho, on the same site as a former building; and there is no doubt, I think, that the city is an ancient one and was in existence more than 1,200 years ago, although we can find no records giving any authentic historical account.

"The Potala dominates everything in Lhasa. The enormous mass of buildings, partly monastery, partly palace, and partly fortress, is built on a rocky ridge which stands out in the center of the valley, commanding the town and dominating the landscape. Its architecture is magnificently grand, bold in outline and design; it towers above everything, with its gray white walls and buttresses, its immense flights of steps and terraces dotted with red-robed monks ascending and descending from religious ceremonies; its dull madder-red temple walls, with carved and painted windows, showing behind black brown yak's hair hangings, surmounted by its gilded roofs and set in almost parklike surroundings of trees and meadows, with snow-capped mountains on all sides and the Kyi-chhu, the River of Delight, running clear in many channels through groves of willow or poplar.

"It is indeed a fitting shrine for the heart of any religion, and with such surroundings it is difficult to understand how the present form of Buddhism (Lamaism), as practiced in Tibet, could ever have sunk to the depths of degradation that it has reached.

"But the interior of the Potala is curiously disappointing, as it consists principally of a mass of dark passages and cells, a certain number of halls and flights of steps.

"Among the larger halls were several striking ones, especially that in which was the gilt tomb of Nag-wang-Lob-sang Gya-tsho; the dome of this hall extended upward through several stories. On the tomb there was a great deal of metal ornamentation, and the whole formed a fine piece of work. On each side of the principal tomb were similar ones of smaller dimensions, those of Dalai Lamas less notable.

Gold Images and Butter Lamps.

"In another room of fairly large dimensions the walls were lined with shelves from floor to ceiling, each shelf closely packed to its uttermost extent with images of Buddha. There must have been thousands of all metals—gold, silver, copper, brass—and many were of very beautiful workmanship. In another chapel there were hundreds of golden butter lamps.

"It would be quite impossible to give even a semblance of a plan of this conglomeration of buildings, and it would take weeks, perhaps months, to visit every part of the enormous structure, capable of holding thousands of people.

"From the flat roofs of the Potala the whole valley lies mapped out below—the town to the east, a mass of low, two-storied, substantially-built houses interspersed with temples; the Jo-Khang, the most holy shrine in Tibet; the Chagpori, or school of medicine; the Turquoise bridge (Yutok Sampa), so-called on account of its green-blue tiled roof; the many channels of the River of Delight (the Kyi-chhu), beyond which lies the arsenal, and to the north the Monastery of Sera under the hills, containing 5,000 monks. Further on the Debung monastery with 10,700 inmates; the gilded roofs of the Na-chung-chos-kyong; and the Ling-Nor, the sacred road along which all devout Buddhists prostrate themselves in the hope that all their earthly sins may be forgiven, could be seen in places.

"There are monks everywhere in or near Lhasa. The three large monasteries of Sera, Debung and Gah-dan alone contain about 20,000, and with all the other temples and monasteries the number cannot fall far short of 30,000, while the lay population of Lhasa only amounts to about 15,000, of whom 9,000 are women, who, strange to say, carry on practically the whole of the trade done. The remaining 6,000 males are about 3,000 Tibetans and 3,000 foreigners—Chinese, Nepalese, Kashmeris, etc.

It was fortunate that it was a French rather than an American city that found its drinking water accidentally impregnated with carbolic acid, the French through both circumstance and habit being so much more independent of drinking water.

Proving That Hasty Criticism Is Unwise

In "My Book of Memory," Youth's Companion tells us, Mr. Silas Hocking, the English novelist, repeats an amusing story concerning Dr. W. B. Pope, once a famous Wesleyan professor of theology, and of his son Sam.

The son was preparing for the bar. Occasionally he tried his 'prentice hand at preaching the gospel in village chapels. One Sunday morning his father said to him: "Sam, I'm not feeling at all well today. You will have to preach for me this morning."

Sam demurred. The father insisted and suggested that he had two hours to make a sermon, and if he could not do it in that time he was not fit to be a barrister.

Sam went away to the study. Then he went off to chapel. Unknown to him, his father followed and found a seat hidden behind the pulpit. He heard the sermon and then hastened home again.

"Well, Sam," said he on his son's return, "I've heard you preach, and a poor thing you made of it. I thought you could have done better than that."

"You think the sermon was not very good?" the son inquired.

"Good?" the old man replied. "I think it was one of the worst sermons I have listened to!"

"Well, father," said Sam, "I thought I turned over a big pile in your study, and it was the best I could find."

National Hero Just Small Boy to Mother

A Dutch salvage firm is scouring the bottom of the Caribbean sea looking for a part of the treasure that went to the bottom in the Seventeenth century when Piet Hein, admiral of the Dutch fleet captured eight Spanish galleons loaded with silver and sank five others.

When Piet Hein captured the Spanish "silver fleet," the power of the Dutch republic had already started on its decline, Pierre Van Paassen tells us, in the Atlanta Constitution. The news of the admiral's victory therefore sent the country into frenzies of enthusiasm. When he arrived at Rotterdam, members of the government were on hand to greet him and the aristocracy of Amsterdam and Haarlem in lace and cloth cheered itself hoarse at the sight of the popular young admiral. All Holland was in gala. But when the admiral approached the little cottage in Delftshaven where his mother lived and he rapped on the door there was a voice: "Is that you, Piet?" "Yes, mother." "Then wipe your feet on the mat, my boy. It's a little muddy outside today."

Beavers in Real Wilds

Few places now exist where beavers may be seen living wild, in natural surroundings in Europe. Forty years ago the last one disappeared from Scandinavia, where they lingered longest near Arendal, in southern Norway. A correspondent of the Field reports that a small, but thriving and increasing colony of these animals now exists in the same region (at Niel Elve), in a very inaccessible part of the country, no human dwellings anywhere near, and the ground covered with thick undergrowth and trees of birch, aspen and pine. No indication of their origin is given, and it seems possible that a small remainder of the old stock has been hidden here all this time.

Gull Beautiful Bird

Many feathered scavengers are uncouth, repulsive and awkward in flight, but the herring gull is a thing of beauty and exceedingly graceful under wing, a master of the air currents, gliding with perfection. He soars over the city, follows the river craft, perches upon the channel buoys, and may often be found in flocks resting upon the waters of inland ponds and reservoirs. Unlike other water birds, he is not shy; on the contrary, he is very friendly, perhaps because he has few enemies and is protected not only in the harbors but in the breeding rookeries.

Its Origin Uncertain

The phrase "Lynch law" has been variously traced to a Virginia soldier and to a Virginia farmer of that name, to one Lynch, who was sent out from England about 1687 to suppress piracy, and to a mayor of Galway, in Ireland; while yet another tradition refers it to Lynch creek, in North Carolina, where the forms of a court-martial and execution were gone through over the lifeless body of a Tory, who had already been precipitately hanged to prevent a rescue.—Chamber's Encyclopedia.

Clock in Sidewalk

Thousands walk over the northeast corner of Maiden lane and Broadway in New York and never know that they are stepping on the face of a clock. This clock, measuring about two feet across, is covered with glass an inch thick. The hour and minute hands are painted jet black. Because of the dust and dirt the clock is scarcely discernible during the daylight hours, but at night it is illuminated and is a useful teller of time.

"Find" on the Farm

The city kid was roaming about in the country when he came upon a dozen or so empty condensed milk cans. He yelled to his companions:

"Hey, fellers, come here, quick! I've found a cow's nest!"—Farm and Fireside.

And now they say that Captain Kidd was no pirate at all but merely a chaser of pirates carrying letters of marque and reprisal from the Prince of Orange. And so goes—if this be true—one more bit of the old romance of the sea.
